Brief

GIA knows how to motivate their staff and create a successful work environment. By throwing a fantastic end of year party they could show their appreciation to all that work at the company. Travelling across the Channel, the trip had to be worth the effort!

Our response

The venue was the outstanding Paris Hilton located a stone's throw away from the beautiful Eiffel Tower. With two private carriages onboard the Eurostar, guests left from St Pancras in the morning and were ready to start their jam packed afternoon by lunchtime. Organising a specially designed treasure hunt for the group, teams navigated their way around Paris before returning to their hotel for pre-dinner drinks and a fantastic three course dinner served behind floor to ceiling windows overlooking the Eiffel Tower at night.

Pre-dinner drinks were served on the lower ground floor in a specially decorated room before guests were escorted up to the 10th Floor into the spectacular room with views all over Paris, adding to the 'wow' factor.

After dinner music was provided in the form of a disco with a specially tailored playlist to entertain everyone taking to the floor.

The following day guests had the morning at leisure to explore Paris. Tickets were arranged in advance for groups wishing to visit the famous Louvre or for those just wishing to see Paris from an even bigger height via the Eiffel Tower itself.

All treasure hunt packs and itinerary information was designed and provided by Jarvis Woodhouse Events.
